

Stefano BIANCHINI is professor of East European History and Institutions at the University of Bologna and the scientific co-director of the European Regional Master in Democracy and Human Rights of the Universities of Sarajevo and Bologna and the director of the Center for Studies on East Central and Balkan Europe of the University of Bologna. Since 1992 he has also been the central coordinator of the “Europe and the Balkans International network”. Since 1995 he has been the Scientific Director of the Advanced International Cervia Summer School on “Post-communist Transition and European Integration Processes” of the University of Bologna, Italy. He is also Editor in Chief of the English Series on the Balkan and East-Central Europe of the “International Network Europe & the Balkans”. He is a member of the Editorial Board of “Nationalities Papers”, the journal of the Association for Studies of Nationalities and of Italian Review of Geopolitics “Limes”.

Dr. Florian BIEBER is a Lecturer in East European Politics at the University of Kent. He has been working for five years in Belgrade (Serbia) and Sarajevo (Bosnia-Herzegovina) for the European Centre for Minority Issues. He is also a Visiting Professor at the Nationalism Studies Program at Central European University and has taught at the Regional Masters Program for Democracy and Human Rights at the University of Sarajevo and the Interdisciplinary Master in East European Studies, University of Bologna. He is the author of Nationalism in Serbia from the Death of Tito to the Fall of Milošević (in German) and Post-War Bosnia: Ethnic Structure, Inequality and Governance of the Public Sector and has edited and co-edited four books on South-eastern Europe.

Georges CONTOGEORGIS is a professor of political science at the Panteion University of Athens with a Ph.D. from the University of Paris. He is the former Rector of Panteion University. He was a Founding Member and First Secretary-General of the Hellenic Political Science Association, as well as a Member, Higher Council and Research Council of the European University Institute in Florence. He has taught at numerous Universities (IEP Paris, Montpellier, ULB, UCL, Tokyo, Quebec, etc.). He has been President-General Director of Hellenic Broadcasting Corp'n twice. In addition, he has been Service Minister in charge of Communication and Media and Government Spokesman. He is currently involved in a Comparative Research Program focusing on the elaboration of a macroscopic global approach to politics, i.e. a theory of the cosmosystem. His works include: The Theory of Revolution in Aristotle; The Greek Popular Ideology. Socio-political Study of the Hellenic Folk Songs; Social Dynamic and Political Autonomy. The Hellenic 'City-States' under Ottoman Rule; Political System and Politics; A History of Greece; Democracy, from the City-State to the Technological Society ; The Science of Politics: A Cosmosystemic Approach to the Political Phenomenon; The authoritarian Phenomenon; Citizenship and State. Concept and typology of citizenship. The Hellenic Cosmosystem.

Gvozden FLEGO was co-editor of different philosophical journals in Croatia; co-founder and co-editor of the several philosophical collections by different Croatian publishers for 20 years. He has been a member, President or Director of several philosophical associations and institutions. He was the co-organizer and organizer of more than a dozen international philosophical conferences in Croatia and abroad (Germany, France, Italy); co-director of twelve sessions of the international post-graduate courses in social philosophy at the Inter-University Centre for Post-Graduate Studies (Dubrovnik); hosted more than 140 foreign philosophy professors in Zagreb and Dubrovnik. Over the past decade, he has published 11 articles and two books in Croatia, several articles in France, Germany, Italy and the USA.

Born in Tirana, Albania, Artan FUGA is the holder of a PhD in history of contemporary philosophy (University of Tirana), a PhD in communication sciences (Université Paris II-Assas). He is a researcher in literature and human sciences (philosophy; Université Paris X-Nanterre).

Professor Zdravko GREBO is professor at the Law Faculty of University of Sarajevo. He has published four books and 150 articles and lectured in Sarajevo, Mostar, Tuzla, Zenica, Gorazde, Banja Luka and Doboj. As a guest professor he has lectured at Universities of Finland, Hungary, Germany, USA, Switzerland and Italy. He has written the proposal of alternative Constitution of BH in 1990. Prof. Grebo prepared and have been the editor of more than 50 books on law and political philosophy, essayistic and belletristic. He made two documentaries: Letter (1992) and Nationality: Geen (Hilversum 1998) and one short film: When men grow up (1996). Prof. Grebo is the founder and director of the Center for Interdisciplinary Postgraduate Studies of the University of Sarajevo (2000). He is the founder of HCA BH /Helsinki Citizens Assembly – (1998) and Open Society Fund of BH /SOROS Foundation (1992). He was the founder and director of Open Society BH Legal Centre (1994). The awards he has received include: the European Rectors Club “For Peace and against racism and Xenophobia” (1993), The Franklin D. Roosevelt Four Freedom Award – Medal for Freedom from Fear (1994); the medal of Republic of France – Palm Academic Award (2002); a badge and the title of member of honor of "International League of Humanists" (2004).

Damir GRUBISA is a researcher of the Institute for International Relations in Zagreb, Croatia, and he has published numerous works on international relations and political theory. He is editor of the Croatian International Relations Review, founder and President of the Croatian Peace Research Association, member of the Scientific Council of the Croatian Academy of Science and Arts, member of the Board of the Croatian Political Science Association.

Henry HUTTENBACH is Professor of History at the City University of New York. He has been the founder and editor of the Journal of Genocide Research and the Genocide Forum. In addition, he is an Adjunct Professor at Columbia University. In 2003 he became Doctor Honoris Causa at the University of Uppsala, Sweden, for pioneering the field of Genocide studies. His works have been published in over a dozen languages; he has lectured extensively internationally.

Dušan Svetolik JANJIĆ is a Senior Researcher of the Centre for Sociological Research, University of Belgrade, and Founder and Coordinator of the Forum for Ethnic Relations of Belgrade. He is the author of more than 100 editions (books, articles, etc.), as well as editor of various professional journals and publishing institutions; Founder and Chef in Editor of Magazines "Europe" and "Forum". He is one of the founders of the European Movement in Serbia, a nongovernmental organization advocating joining the European Union, 1991 and the founder of the European Movement in Serbia and its first secretary-general, 1992–1995.

Frederick KELLOGG is a historian at the, University of Arizona. From 1967 to present he has been the author of: A History of Romanian Historical Writing, The Road to Romanian Independence, O istorie a istoriografiei romane, Drumul Romaniei spre independenta. He has been the managing editor of "Southeastern Europe/L'Europe du sud-est" from 1974 to 2002. He has been the recipient of the following awards: Premiul Nicolae Iorga, Academia Romana; Certificate of Recognition, Society for Romanian Studies; named honorary member, Institutul de istorie "A.D. Xenopol", honorary member, Institutul de istorie 'A.D. Xenopol'.

Anna KRASTEVA is director of the Dept. of Political Sciences and of CERMES (Centre for Refugees, Migration and Ethnic Studies) at the New Bulgarian University in Sofia. She is author of 1 individual and 10 edited books (2 of them published in both Bulgarian and English, two others – in Bulgarian and French) among which: Immigration in Bulgaria; Conflicts, confidence, democracy; From ethnicity to migration; Recent social trends in Bulgaria 1960 - 1995; Communities and identities in Bulgaria, as well as several articles published in more than 10 countries. She has given lectures in France, Belgium, Italy, Switzerland, USA, Turkey, Romania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, etc. She has been a member of the editorial board of the journal Nationalism and ethnic politics, of the board of the Francophone sociological association (1996-2004) and of other international scientific boards.

Josef MARKO, author of studies of law, political sciences and sociology at Graz, Austria and Munich, Germany, is a Professor of Public Law and International Protection of Human Rights at the University of Graz. He is also the Director of the Law School's Center for South East Europe and Director of the Minority Rights Institute at the European Academy Bozen-Bolzano, Italy. From 1997 to 2002 he was an international judge of the Constitutional Court of Bosnia and Herzegovina; from 1998 to 2002 he was a member of the Advisory Committee within the Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities, re-elected in 2006 for another four years' period.

Günay Göksu ÖZDOĞAN is a professor of political science at the Department of Political Science and International Relations of Marmara University, Istanbul. She is the current head of this department, after having directed the Marmara University Research Center for International Relations (MURCIR). Her teaching and research interests include: political history; theories and politics of nationalism; minority issues and state policies; nationalism in Europe, Balkans and Turkey; Soviet nationality policies and post-Soviet nation-building processes in the Turkic republics. She has also taught at Boğaziçi University and Bilgi University in Istanbul and was a visiting scholar at the Middle Eastern Studies of Harvard University in 2001. She has co-edited Redefining Nation, State and Citizen (2000); Balkans: A Mirror of the New International Order (1995); Transboundary Issues in International Relations: Migration, Human Rights, Gender, Global Justice and Security (in Turkish, 2003) and authored the Turkish Historical Association's research prize winning (2002) book, From 'Turan' to "Gray-Wolf": Turkism During One-Party Period, 1931-1946 (in Turkish, 2001) along with a number of articles in English and Turkish.

Francesco PRIVITERA is Professor of East European Studies at the School of Political Science of the University of Bologna (Forlì Campus) and the Deputy Director at the Istituto per l'Europa Centro-Orientale e Balcanica of the University of Bologna. He is the author of a number of articles, essays and monographs, among which: Self-Determination. From Versailles to Dayton its Historical Legacy (edited with Henry Huttenbach), The continuing transition: East Central Europe between Renovation and Tradition (1989-1994).

Violette REY has been involved in the field of spatial structures researches on Eastern countries for 30 years. Professor of geography in the famous "Ecole Normale Supérieure", Member of Honour of the Romanian Academy, author of volume 10 "Europes orientales" in "Géographie Universelle", she is in charge of the Géophile research centre of the ENS. She supervises a large number of PhD research studies on Eastern Europe, especially on regional development. She is member of the publishing boards of: Espace géographique (Paris), Belgeo (Bruxelles) and OstEuropa Hefte (Vienna), as well as a member of the scientific boards of the international Research Centres "Marc Bloch centre" in Berlin and "CEFRES" in Prague.

Mykola RIABCHUK is a Research Associate at the Centre for European Studies at the University of "Kyiv-Mohyla Academy" and a co-founder and co-editor of the "Krytyka monthly" – a leading Ukrainian intellectual periodical. He penned seven books and many articles distinguished with professional awards and translated into a number of European languages, including French (De la petit-Russie a l'Ukraine) and German (Die reale und die imaginierte Ukraine).

Rudolf M. RIZMAN is Professor of Sociology and Political Science at the Philosophical Faculty and Director of its Scientific and Research Institute, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia. He was a member of the Bertrand Russell International Tribunal and Jean-Paul Sartre's Anti-Prix Committee. He studied and received his PhDs in sociology from Ljubljana and from Harvard University. The range of his research and teaching interests includes the following topics: history of social thought, sociology of nationalism, nation-state and globalization, democratic transitions and consolidations, sociology of national identity and on the sociological relevance of human rights and genocide. Between 2002 to 2006 member of the international research team on "Globalization and Autonomy" at McMaster University. His previous study stays and lecturing include Woodrow Wilson Center in Washington D.C., Slavic Research Center at Hokkaido University in Sapporo, University of Bologna, London School of Economics, University of Pittsburgh, University of Washington in Seattle, University of Minsk, Charles University in Prague, University of Sarajevo, European University Institute in Florence. He has published several books dealing with the national question in Yugoslavia and in contemporary world, on political ideas (anarchism, liberalism, and nationalism) and human rights. He printed two books: From Authoritarianism to Democracy and Independence - The Case of Slovenia (Longo: Ravenna) and The Paradoxes of Globalization (Ljubljana: Sofia).